Narrow Escape At Railway Crossing.

What might have been a serious accident, was narrowly averted on Monday evening, when the passenger train collided with an Essex car driven by Mr. J. T. Tittsworth was driving for the east side of town and did not observe the train which was slowing down to stop at the station. The car was struck at the rear and was thrown into the ditch. Fortunately none of the occupants were injured and the only damage to the car was a smashed fender, dented body and the end spring torn from the hanger.

Hockey Season Opens Saturday

The first hockey game of the season opens here Saturday, when Calgary Bruins cross sticks with the local boys in an exhibition game.

The Bruins have the reputation of having a strong line-up of young players, but according to our local manager, they will get a run for their money, as the home team have prospects of the strongest forward-line they have had in years.

The game is scheduled to start at 9 p.m., and fans can be assured of a real fast game.

Crossfield Has $30,000.00 Fire.

Two buildings and thousands of feet of lumber fell prey to flames between midnight and 1 o'clock Monday morning in a fire that swept a section of Crossfield, causing damage of $30,000. The 300 residents of the town quit their slumber and volunteers rushed to aid the town brigade in fighting the flames.

For a while it was feared that a big part of the business section would be destroyed, but the wind, blowing from the southwest, carried the sparks away from the other buildings and on to the open prairie. The U. F. A. store and the Baker garage, both brick buildings were the closest to the burning buildings, but were not damaged.

Two buildings destroyed were the Pioneer Livery Stables and the office building of the Atlas Lumber Company, the latter, with thousands of feet of lumber, suffering the heaviest loss. Insurance, to a large degree will cover the damage. The fire is believed to have started by hobo smoking in the loft of the livery barn.

ARE WE HARD UP?

A fruitful source of discussion these days, and one that was thoroughly threshed out at a meeting of the few members of the Red Cross Society in Didsbury held on Monday night, with Mayor H. W. Chambers in the chair. The decision arrived at was that the majority of us were not—that we had health, that health is life, and that we were accordingly rich.

At the opening of the meeting the chairman made the statement that in his opinion, Didsbury did not have a conscience for Red Cross work. The secretary, remembering the many donations of clothing, and things given willingly and gladly during the past year, begged respectfully, to differ with the chairman's statement, but still, there seemed to be an element of doubt, so the local branch is going to ask for additional proof.

Some people still think that the Red Cross is a wartime organization and should have been abolished long ago. It certainly did wonderful work during the war, but its peacetime program of work is more wonderful still. That great peace organization, the League of Nations, shortly after the war, declared as one of its objects, the care of children, so as to give each child the chance to become a healthy man, or woman. This great work was entrusted to the International Red Cross Society, which has branches in every country of the world.

The little branch in Didsbury has been doing its best to carry out the worthy objects for which the Society stands. It has been collecting and distributing clothing, without publicity, for publicity is not desired. It has arranged for several children in the town and district to be cared for in the Red Cross Hospital in Calgary, during the last few years. This year, four children have received treatment. Two are in the Hospital at the present time, and it is expected a third will be admitted to the Hospital before the end of the year. The duration of the treatment has been from six months to two years. No child is refused admission, provided it is a proper case for treatment in the Hospital, and there is a bed available. No charge is made to the town or municipality, and the child receives the best treatment and skill available.

The Alberta Red Cross Society is financed by voluntary contributions and at this time, is faced by a deficit of $10,000.00, which it is desired to raise before the end of this year.

A New and Better Attitude

The world is passing through a period of depression from the evil effects of which practically no civilized nation is exempt, and the more highly developed and industrialized a nation has become, the more severely it is suffering from the prevailing depression. Undoubtedly, it is not wise to unduly dwell upon or stress existing hard times, and the tendency to do so should be resisted, but, on the other hand, it would be even more unwise to ignore facts, deliberately shut our eyes to them, and not make the required effort to overcome and shorten the present evil, seek for causes of it, and take necessary steps to prevent its recurrence.

There have been many such periods in the past, and there will, in all probability, be more of them in the future, despite all that man can do to prevent them. In fact, human failings and human greed are the underlying causes of these periods of depression, and their entire prevention will only be brought about by a complete reform of the human race. The present period differs, however, from former periods of depression in at least two important respects, both of which are the outcome of a changed attitude on the part of the vast majority of people towards our whole social and economic structure.

First, there is greater interest taken in relief measures than ever before by governments, corporations, and individuals alike. We no longer regard acute misery as necessary. We may not have learned yet how to prevent it, but there is a widespread and growing belief that the thing can be done and there is considerable willingness to make sacrifices to attain the desired end.

No longer is there callous indifference to the suffering caused by reason of unemployment. We have progressed to the point of realizing that the homeless casual laborer is not the only or even the principal sufferer in such times as these. We have learned to concentrate attention and relief upon the families of the unemployed who are permanent members of the community. We have come to realize that the difficulties of hundreds of thousands are not of their own making, and that they cannot be allowed to suffer want and utter privation. We have learned, too, that it is better to provide emergency relief work for these people than to hand out doles and make them recipients of charity.

Thus in this present period of depression we find relief works being undertaken on a scale hitherto unknown. In Canada, it means that over $100,000,000 will be expended in order to provide temporary work for those lacking employment. This, of course, is not a cure; nor is it a preventive. It is merely an amelioration of existing conditions. It means, too, that as a people we are mortgaging our future, because these $100,000,000 or more will be borrowed moneys upon which we must pay interest for many years to come. But it is better to utilize these moneys in providing work than to dole it out in charity. Furthermore, if the works instituted are of the right character, in a word, if they are of a permanent character and productive of good to the country in the years to come, and the money thereon is not wastefully expended, they may even prove factors in creating and maintaining a new prosperity and staving off further periods of depression.

But an even more important aspect of this present period of depression is discovered in the efforts being put forth to find out what caused the depression, and how to climb out of it, and how to avoid again falling into a similar state. We now realize that a good deal of the economic thinking of recent years has not stood the test of the last twelve months. But, as the Chicago Tribune puts it, we have not lost one product of boom times; we still think that it is the business of an economic system to make for human enjoyment. Economics is not the dismal science to this generation. We know we have the productive capacity to provide a generous minimum standard of living to all who will work and we regard large scale unemployment and consequent suffering as a reflection upon our intelligence.

It is one thing, of course, to believe that a deep seated ill ought to be cured and quite another to cure it. And while there is no justification as yet for thinking that this is the last depression which we shall ever encounter, there is a considerable warrant for a tempered optimism. Some of the ablest minds in business and in the universities are directed toward the problem. We have more statistical information which bears on the causes of the business cycle than ever before. We are developing a technique for alleviating the worst effects of depressions, which will be of value even if a cure is not found. The outlook is far from hopeless.

"Audible Museum" in Berlin

Phonograph Record Made in 1908 Is Among Collection

The piercing wail of a grief-stricken Korean, the merry song of a Roumanian tailor, the whoop of an American cowboy and the lingering call of a Spanish night watchman are some of the exotic sounds which the non-traveller will shortly be able to hear in an "audible museum" soon to be established in Berlin under the direction of the Ministry of Posts. A recently found primitive phonograph record of Count Zeppelin's voice in which the father of the airship appeals to the German people for support of his project will also be included. This record dates from 1908, shortly after a disaster to one of his airships at Echterdingen, and includes the words: "In a few years my airships will conquer the world." Acting on the belief that appropriate sounds intensify the impressions a visitor receives from displays, the Ministry intends to incorporate a series of phonograph records with various exhibits, which interested folk may turn on and hear the voices of such men as Edison, Marconi, Lindbergh, and of others of historical interest, as well as sounds from other lands and other times in so far as they are collectable and recordable.

Danger from Colds

Every woman beyond middle age should realize that a majority of the troubles she has to fear have their origin in what are known as common colds. Each attack lowers her vitality and reduces resistance to disease. At this season of the year every woman should see that her blood is toned up to meet the rigors of the climate and especially that strength should be restored after any cold, however slight. For this Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a reliable tonic.

These Pills are not a mere stimulant giving temporary relief. They build up the body by creating that rich red blood which imparts the glow of health; steadies the nerves, improves the appetite and digestion and make the users capable of withstanding the rigors of our Fall and Winter months. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Army Of Enumerators Will Be Employed In Taking The Decennial Census Of Canada

Fourteen thousand enumerators, 245 commissioners to direct their work, and a considerable number of others, will find employment next year in the taking of the decennial census of Canada.

The commissioners—one for each electoral district—will be appointed right after New Year, while the enumerators will be chosen in March or April, to permit of study and instruction prior to the actual date of the census, which will be on June 1st. The census taking, of course, will require considerable time, varying in accordance with the area covered and the density of population. But what is to be put down are all the facts and figures as they may be on June 1st, regardless of what changes may occur later, before the census is published. It is necessary to fix on some arbitrary date.

Awaiting the approval of the Government just now and to be promulgated as soon as this sanction is forthcoming are the regulations governing the census of Canada. There are several new features. Each successive census being more elaborate, past experience not only here but in other countries will be availed of. The Bureau of Statistics is constantly exchanging ideas with the international statistical organization. In the new schedules, complete as they have been heretofore, there will be further details of agriculture and industry, and the point over which some contention has arisen as to Canadian nationality will be covered. A person who says he is simply a Canadian will be put down as such, although it is denied that in the past it was impossible to make such distinctions.

The census must also take into account some seeming anomalies in the law.

For example, under the immigration act, even a Britisher must be in Canada for five years before he can acquire Canadian domicile, and yet if he has been here only six months he can vote or even be eligible for election to Parliament. The schedules will be so numerous as to set forth all the facts concerning the individual and his origin from away back.

One of the entirely new features this time will be the use of aeroplanes in the northern regions, which, 10 years ago, had to be covered on foot or by canoe or dog train. Incidentally, the tabulation was delayed until these returns came in. Next year, they will be as prompt as the rest.

While the census is taken completely only every 10 years, check on it is kept from year to year, and the figures are such as to indicate a normal growth but no extraordinary increase in population. Although quite an army of competent people will be required for the census business, the problem will be only one of selection, because there will be plenty seeking the jobs. The appointments are to be made by the Government and not under the Civil Service Act, and so political influence may count.

Predicts Speedier 'Planes

Rocket Craft Expert Believes 5,000 Miles Per Hour Possible

Herr Fritz Von Opel, German rocket craft expert, predicts the airplane of 12 years hence will be a rocket propelled conveyance that will fly 25 miles above the earth at a speed of 3,000 to 5,000 miles an hour.

"I think it sounds ridiculous to talk of travelling 5,000 or even 3,000 miles an hour," said Von Opel, "but in a few years that speed will be commonplace. Theoretically my experimental 'planes will do that now, but they have not been developed on a practical basis."

Canada's Fish Industry

Should Get More Support From Canadian Consumers

Business can be stimulated and more work can be found for our own people through the persistent purchase of Canadian instead of foreign goods. In no sphere of life can this policy be more easily followed or its good effects be more quickly seen than in the every-day use for the household, especially of food. It is strange that though Canada has the finest fisheries in the world, the consumption of fish at home is relatively small; and, at the same time, we seem to think it necessary to buy considerable quantities of foreign fish year after year, the imports in 1929 amounting to no less than $4,174,568.

If we reduced the imports of foreign fish and eat more of our own the fishing industry would benefit enormously, and no industry is more worthy of encouragement. Fishermen, both inland and on the two sea-coasts, are plain people who buy almost exclusively goods made in Canada. Is it not reasonable for consumers in Canada to reciprocate by making more use of Canadian fish, and thus to increase the purchasing power of Canadian fishermen? The industry has an importance which perhaps people who live inland do not appreciate, for the capital invested in it is nearly $60,000,000 and the annual production is worth more than $50,000,000. The money realized from the fisheries is spent with manufacturers of iron, brass, rubber, cordage, flour, textiles, engines, clothing—in fact, its ramifications are felt throughout the country, and directly or indirectly it gives employment to many thousands of workmen, hundreds of miles away from the scene of operations. If each family in the land consumed even a few more pounds of Canadian fish it would give a great stimulus to an industry which already contributes so largely to the prosperity of Canada.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Figures For Past Ten Years Shows Heavy Business Done At Moose Jaw Stock Yards

"During the past ten years," says "The Optimeter," "some 792,994 cattle, 51,081 calves, 696,345 hogs, 258,944 sheep and 15,112 horses were handled through the stock yards at Moose Jaw, according to figures computed by the Southern Saskatchewan Co-operative Stock Yards. In other words, more sheep and swine were handled through the Moose Jaw yards in the period under review than the entire number of sheep and swine present in Saskatchewan in 1929." In that year there were in Saskatchewan 1,166,913 cattle, 207,551 sheep, 599,909 swine and 1,122,757 horses.

Study Of The Whole Field Of Federal And Provincial Taxation Is Thought Necessary

The ever widening problem of raising revenue for administration purposes and public undertakings by both provincial and the federal governments, has reached a stage that calls for thorough examination of the whole field of taxation, according to views advanced at the convention in Toronto, of the Canadian tax conference and the Canadian civil service research conference.

With delegates in attendance from widely separated parts of the Dominion, the conference applied itself to the study of the country's tax structure and offered suggested remedies in meeting some of the more outstanding problems.

Duplication and lack of uniformity in taxes levied in the various provinces, should invite tax reformers into action, declared A. E. Crysler, of Toronto Board of Trade. Lack of uniformity, he said, proved a baffling problem for business interests operating over a large section of the country, while overlapping arising in connection with the income tax was often considered "unfair."

In a paper submitted by Prof. H. R. Kemp, Department of Economics, University of Toronto, two primary problems were set forth: How to secure increase of revenue, needed to meet the commitments of the Dominion, and how to improve present arrangements for obtaining revenue.

The Federal Government, he said, faced a deficit of about $40,000,000 while the provinces and municipalities were also confronted with the need of augmented revenues to meet obligations and undertakings. As means of meeting these needs he suggested excise duties might be levied on certain low-priced commodities, citing sugar as an example. This suggestion, however, met with disfavor in the subsequent round-table discussion. Prof. Kemp believed there were other channels of revenue that might be explored, with the federal income tax probably slightly raised.

As a remedy for some of the existing tax evils, Prof. Kemp advised a thorough investigation into the double taxation of corporation incomes, periodical conferences between provincial authorities, and a general study by everybody interested of the whole subject of public debts and taxation.

Alluding to taxation in relation to the country's net production, Mr. Crysler declared that in 1928 the increase in taxation revenues had been more rapid than the increase in the total net production. In that development he detected a dangerous portent. "We may soon have the heaviest taxation of all imposed on the citizen in the leanest of all years," he said.

A paper by J. G. Hay, Commissioner of Taxation in Winnipeg, dealing with assessment of urban land for taxation purposes, provoked general discussion.

Mr. Crysler, reviewing taxation changes in 1930, stated the present trend was to extend the gasoline tax and relieve income tax payers. It was recognized, he said, the income tax was unpopular because of its tendency to penalize the honest to the advantage of the dishonest. He forecast a "lively legislative interest" and a "progressive softening" of the income tax.

A one-cent-per-pound tax on sugar said Prof. Kemp, would raise at least $9,000,000 a year for the Dominion. "Sugar," he argued, "is now selling at a price no higher than that prevailing before the war, and at less than the cost of production. Such a tax, though retrogressive, would perhaps not be unduly burdensome to consumers who have paid over 25 cents a pound for sugar in the past."

Two prominent Toronto business men, William C. Coulter and George Bridgen, led the general attack on the proposed sugar tax. Mr. Bridgen asserted the governments of the world received an all time lesson against excise taxes on such necessities when Britain lost the American colonies through the tea tax.

It was also suggested by Prof. Kemp that collection of municipal income taxes be made by the federal authorities, who would then turn the amount over to the municipal authorities. This, he said, would increase the net revenue from the tax. "Various public utilities also could yield large revenue in case of necessity," he added.

Shows Great Variation

Every Country Has Its Own Manner Of Eating

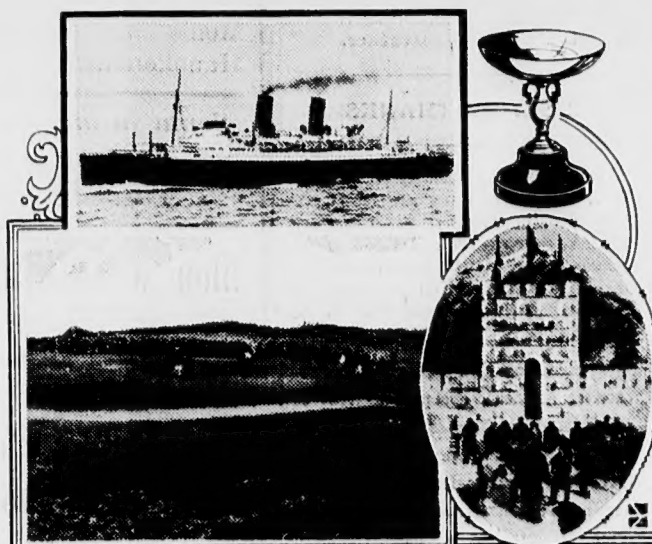

Nothing is more curious than the different manners of eating which are correct in different countries. We leave succulent gravy on our plate, because good manners forbid that we should soak it up with a piece of bread. Yet in France to leave that gravy would be considered extremely rude, and the daintiest eater would certainly chase the last elusive drop round the plate with a soft piece of bread. The correct way to sup soup with us is from the side of the spoon, but to do this in Germany would mark one as not knowing the habits of polite society; there it must be inhaled from the end of the spoon. Another—to us—curious custom is the French one of resting the hands always on the table, directly they have finished a course; to sit with them in the lap is not good manners.

This reminds us of a story a woman told once of a foreigner her father asked to the house. At dinner the first night asparagus was served, and the visitor, having watched furtively what other people did, ate it in his fingers as to the manner born. The next night leeks appeared as a vegetable, and the young man, quite sure of himself this time, started on it happily, taking it in his fingers as he had done the asparagus. Now, did the laws of perfect breeding demand that all the people in the house should follow suit, or not? It is related of a perfect host that on one occasion when entertaining some visitor whose table manners were not very civilized, and who took up his finger bowl, and drank from it, he, after one glance round the somewhat astonished table, took up his finger bowl, and also drank from it!

HEAVY WINTER TRAVEL IS PREDICTED

Here in picture are some of the reasons advanced by Canadian Pacific Railway and Steamship officials for a prediction of heavy winter travel on the prairies this year. Lower left, a scene at the Empress annual mid-winter golf tournament in Victoria, to be held this winter from February 23 to 28, with, top right, a drawing of the E. W. Beatty challenge cup, the principal emblem. Top left, the Canadian Pacific steamship "Duchess of Bedford," with other ships of the line, will take thousands of holiday makers to the Old Country for Christmas. WHY NOT BE FRIENDLY

Life is too short to be wasted in saying mean things about other people. Did you ever try to go a whole week without speaking unkindly to anybody? It isn't easy. It's astonishing the number of harsh things we say without actually meaning to make others uncomfortable.

Most of us are too critical in our attitude towards others. We criticize others for doing certain things, when half the time, were we in their place, we would do worse. You can never tell what you would do.

Try to take a generous view of other people's actions; even if you can't bring yourself to think kindly, at least control your tongue. It is nearly all a matter of habit. You get in the way of making spiteful remarks without realizing how much harm it does you.

Just try the scheme of refraining from unkind criticism. Try it for a week, anyway. It can't hurt you and it may do you a world of good.

GAME DEPLETION

Benjamin Lawton, Alberta game commissioner, is credited with the statement that wild water fowl have undergone a 50 per cent. depletion within the past two years.

In view of this situation it behooves sportsmen not only in Alberta but over the entire continent to take stock of the outlook right now. Every effort should be made next year to secure some fairly accurate estimate of the wild fowl, and if the danger of depletion is so acute as it appears and as Mr. Farley hints, then heroic measures should be taken. In Alberta we have brought back our prairie chicken to very satisfactory numbers by means of closed seasons. If closed seasons will do the same for wild ducks, then that is the course to follow. Alberta is made a more colorful and more pleasing province in which to live by reason of the wild game, and especially the wild ducks which each fall throng our lakes and rivers. It would be well nigh a tragedy were they to be wiped out here as they have been in eastern sections of the continent.—Lethbridge Herald.

EGG CONSUMPTION

Occasion was taken by the President of the Canadian Poultry Pool at the World's Poultry Congress to explain to his audience how it is that Canada has the largest per capita consumption of eggs. This is attributed to the efficient co-operative marketing system and the compulsory egg grad-

Correspondence.

May I through the columns of your paper, express my appreciation of the work of the School Board in securing Mr. Bailey the government lecturer on "Alcohol and its effects upon the brain and the nervous system", who spoke in Knox Church, Monday evening, December 8th. The lecture was clear even to the children of the lower grades at school and his talk to the High School students on "Alcohol and Reproduction" was given in a splendid way. His explanation why a person under the influence of liquor sees double and is therefore unfit to drive a car, was well worked out. The talk from first to last was scientific and visits like that of Mr. Bailey are of real value.

Railway Construction Aids Farmers

With the building of some 135 miles of new railway in Saskatchewan and Alberta this fall and winter, the Canadian Pacific Railway is serving future transportation needs and is also alleviating present unemployment situation in that part of the west.

D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the company's western lines, stated today that the immediate work to relieve unemployment by this means involves an expenditure in the country of more than a half a million dollars.

During November the track was laid connecting Thorsby with Leduc in Alberta and the work of completing this line is proceeding.
The new branch, 28 miles from Crossfield north-westerly, has been laid with rails and work of ballasting is affording employment for two large gangs of men. Ballasting and surfacing, Mr. MacNabb explained, will be continued as long as temperature permits.

With the mild weather peculiar to Alberta some seasons, this should give work, in his opinion, at least until the New Year. The Buchan Construction Company of Calgary, will proceed immediately with the erection of the buildings for this Crossfield line.

POOL MEMBERS, HELP YOUR MANAGER

"Our governments and farming organizations should take every step to urge acreage reduction on other countries, while insisting on similar measures at home. While this may be considered impossible, it must be done."

The above is a quotation from Mr.
J. I. McFarland, new head of Wheat Pool selling agency, and coming from a man of Mr. McFarland's standing in the grain trade of the world, Pool members and other farmers would do well to give the advice very serious consideration, and in as far as possible help the Grain Trade of Canada to readjust itself.

No doubt farmers will ask what will we do. The solution is not far to seek. Go more into mixed farming; cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry, and do not overlook the dairying part of your business. True, this kind of farming means more labor and also being more closely tied to the farm, but with Russia going into wheat raising on such an enormous scale and under such extraordinary labor conditions, the other countries cannot hope to compete.

Start now to meet the new conditions by adopting new farming methods. The day of one crop farming in Canada is over—Innisfail Province.

ECONOMY

FALSE ECONOMY

It is a curious fact that the art of advertising at home is on as high a plane as in any country in the world —but the manufacturers and merchants do not seem to have developed the faculty of showing the rest of the world how really good their products are. British traders are inclined, when bad times prevail, to reduce costs by cutting down advertising, a procedure which has been proved time and time again to be against all the principles of good business. As was mentioned in a recent article contributed to our columns by a local advertising specialist:

"Among experienced advertisers today, it has become an established policy to redouble efforts in bad times, because of the actual results which have been derived in so many instances from the adoption of the policy."

How Women Lose Fat In England

How would you like to lose unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want, and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen, and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal, and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much you weigh—then get a bottle of Kruschen Salts. Take one-half teaspoonful every morning in a glass of hot water, and when you have finished the first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat, and you'll also know that the six vitalizing salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health.

That's the way Englishwomen keep slim—why not you?

Peace River Bacon

Bacon Hogs Now Shipped In Carloads From Peace River To Vancouver

Less than 30 years ago, the Peace River District of Alberta, an extensive area of country northwest of Edmonton, was considered even by some agricultural experts as unsuited for productive farming. It is now one of the best wheat and other grain producing areas in Canada and also is growing in importance in mixed farming. Bacon hogs are now being shipped in carloads to Vancouver. Among the principal buyers of the Peace River hogs are the Vancouver Department Stores. Housewives of that city say that the bacon from Peace River is of the finest quality and like Oliver Twist they want more.

One of the most recent Canadian winners of the world's wheat prize at the International Grain and Hay Show, Chicago, was from the Peace River country, namely, Herman Trelle, of Wembley. Joseph H. B. Smith, of Wolf Creek, Alberta, last year's winner, is also an Alberta farmer, but is located outside of the Peace River District.

A Simple Treatment For Children's Colds

Cold in the head is very common at this time of year, especially in the very young. Neglect of a cold is prone to lead to serious consequences. To relieve all congestion of the system is the first step in treating a cold, whether in infants or adults. For the very young, Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal means of doing this. Containing no narcotic or other harmful drugs they soothe the child's fretfulness, relieve its suffering and ensure convalescence.

Baby's Own Tablets are without an equal for relieving indigestion, constipation and colic. They check diarrhoea; break up colds and simple fevers; promote health-giving sleep and make the dreaded teething period easy. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Horses From Royal Ranch

Exhibits From Prince Of Wales Ranch Win At Portland, Ore.

Eight Clydesdale horses and one Percheron exhibited from the ranch of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, at the recent Pacific International Livestock Show at Portland, Oregon, carried off eleven first prizes and one second. The entries also were awarded all the championships in the Clydesdale classes, the one second prize being awarded in the case where two horses from the Prince's string were shown in one class.

The entries from the Prince of Wales ranch, which is at Pekisko, Alberta, about sixty miles southwest of Calgary, were widely advertised prior to the opening of the show, and the horses were stabled in a special section decorated with the Prince's colours—scarlet and purple.

An Oil That Is Famous.—Though Canada was not the birthplace of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, it is the home of that famous compound. From here its good name was spread to Central and South America, the West Indies, Australia and New Zealand. That is far afield enough to attest its excellence, for in all these countries it is on sale and in demand.

Canadian Tobacco Production

Total 1930 Crop Given As 36,712,700 Pounds

Enough tobacco has been grown in Canada so that if distributed among the population would provide each man, woman and child with over 3½ pounds. The total crop for 1930 is given as 36,712,700 pounds or nearly 7,000,000 pounds more than in 1929. This year's crop was grown on 41,391 acres, 32,170 of which were in Ontario, 9,000 in Quebec and 221 in British Columbia. Ontario accounted for 28,978,000 pounds of the total production, Quebec, 8,490,000 pounds and British Columbia, 144,700 pounds.

For several years several million pounds of tobacco have been exported to the British Isles, and it is expected that this year a considerable percentage of the crop will be exported.

Some Mighty Midgets

Many Small Creatures Stronger In Comparison Than Large Ones

It has been proved that the common snail can draw a load which is fifty times heavier than itself. If an elephant were as strong, in proportion to size, it would have to move nearly 270 tons.

That is only one specimen from Nature's collection of "mighty midgets" that perform in secret on land and in the sea.

Even the strongest men find it difficult to lift more than their own weight. Yet, a bluebottle fly can lift more than 30 times its own weight, while it can draw a load that is 150 times heavier than itself.

Objects which are about forty times heavier than themselves are often carried by the mason wasps.

You have seen those ear-splitting powerful drills which are used to tear up the road? Well, there is a mollusc, known as the piddock or pholas dactylus, which can rival their power, and is a superior worker, as it makes no noise.

Silently, but none the less efficiently, the piddock bores through the hardest rock as casually as if it were soap.

Evidences Of Prosperity

Times Do Not Appear To Be So Bad In This Western City

Among a number of evidences of prosperity in Edmonton, cited by "The Journal," is the fact that the number of telephones in use has increased within a year from 16,124 to 16,641, or over 500. Another evidence is that "one wholesale house in this city sold $30,000 worth of radio sets in September"—thus showing a fair volume of luxury spending.

Asthma No Longer Dreaded. The dread of renewed attacks from asthma has no hold upon those who have learned to rely upon Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. So safe do they feel that complete reliance is placed on this true specific with the certainty that it will always do all that its makers claim. Origin Of Common Expression

The expression "to put a spoke in the wheel" would suggest adding strength to a wheel, although actually the saying is used to indicate that somebody's progress has been barred. It has its origin, no doubt, in the far-off days when vehicles had solid wooden wheels. Holes were made in some of these so that the driver who wished to put on the brake could do so by pushing through one of the holes a piece of wood, called a spoke, and thus prevent the wheel from revolving.

Holstein Herd Has Good Record

Three Holstein cows, members of a herd owned by James A. Thomson of Moose Jaw, have just finished yearly records in the R.O.P. with a production averaging 13,657 pounds of milk containing 657.50 pounds of butter.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect.

Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.

May Lose Duchy Income

If Prince Succeeds To Throne Unmarried Parliament Could Take Control

The problem of the future succession to the throne is a matter of less interest to the English royal family at the moment than the question of the future ownership of the Duchy of Cornwall, the revenue from which provides the Prince of Wales with an income of more than £160,000 a year and is rapidly increasing.

It is obvious that the Prince of Wales must succeed his father if he survives him. But who will then succeed to the revenues from the Royal Duchy of Cornwall?

When King George dies the Prince of Wales will cease to be entitled to receive a penny from the duchy. The rich revenues from the duchy would then pass into the control of Parliament and an act of Parliament would have to be passed to determine how the income would be administered.

This is a contingency King George would like to avert if possible. He would prefer to have the future status of the duchy settled during his life.

In the event of the King's death and the Prince of Wales succeeding to the throne unmarried the Duke of York would become the next heir to the throne. The desire of the royal family is that the Duke should have control of the duchy after becoming heir to the throne and that any subsequent and direct heir to the throne should inherit the income.

If control of the revenues from the Duchy should pass into the hands of Parliament it is certain that Parliament would never relinquish its prerogative and future heirs to the throne would receive only a grant from the duchy, the amount being determined by Parliament.

Behind the scenes a good deal is going on in connection with the future possession of the duchy, but it seems almost certain that the control of the duchy will remain in the hands of the royal family only if the Prince of Wales should marry and have an heir before the death of his father.

Grassy Lake Coal

Coal Obtained By Methods New To Commercial Mining In Alberta

The recent shipment of a car of high grade lump coal, billed from Grassy Lake, Alberta, to Winnipeg, is of unusual interest. Apart from its marking the revival of coal shipments—for Grassy Lake was shipping coal to Saskatchewan in 1909—this shipment has a special interest in that the coal was obtained by methods new to commercial mining practice in Southern Alberta. Future shipments will be watched with considerable interest.

If baby has COLIC

A CRY in the night. Colic! No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy. This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never harm. It is the sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it safe for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than strong medicine meant only for adult use.

"He wouldn't have complained in any case," Gay answered loyally. "That's Nick, Mr. Bartlett. He may not altogether like what life gives him, but he makes the best of it. By all the rules of the game he should be wading in the Pacific, or on the way there; but he has chosen to stick by me. I'm going in now to wash up. Train travel is an abomination. While I'm gone Nick can tell you our problems, and then I'll tell all the things he's forgotten!"

She arose, her hand tightening a bit on her husband's shoulder, and with a smile for the old man she went within. Nick sat quite still for a moment, looking down at the maples in the valley: a gorgeous panorama in gold and crimson.

"No," he said thoughtfully, harking back to the old man's question, "I've never set foot out of New England; yet I thought when Gay and I started off together—" He smiled, as if visioning something very far away. Then the smile vanished, and he said soberly: "Mr. Bartlett, the biggest thing in life has come to us."

He looked up, meeting the old man's untroubled gaze.

"I—ain't surprised," said Simeon Bartlett quietly. "Somehow I knew, soon as I asked what brought you home. Nothin' else would ha' held either of you back from conquerin' the world. You—you ain't by any chance lettin' yourself feel disappointed, boy?"

"I can't you know, for Gay's sake," Nick answered quickly, "though I'll admit that for just a minute I was—well—stunned. All in a breath the plans of my whole life had to be changed about—changed quickly, so Gay wouldn't know I minded ever so little. Perhaps you can't understand, sir, but ever since I was a little shaver I've dreamed of doing what we set out to do. More than anything in the world I desired my freedom. Freedom! What is freedom, Mr. Bartlett, when the look in a girl's eyes has a greater hold on one than the broad highway?"

The old man rocked gently for a moment.

"Freedom," he said at last, "is just another name for happiness. Some finds it some ways, Nick, and some another. They'll likely come times, boy, when the highway'll call so hard it'll be like drawin' teeth to keep from runnin'; but the freedom a man finds in his wife's eyes ain't a bad sort to hold onto. You just hold onto it!"

"So far," Nick answered, with a queer little gesture of surrender, "it has—held onto me!"

CHAPTER V.

In any New England state one can find Bakersville: a good-sized inland town where neighboring farmers come to trade on Saturdays, when Main Street is lined with teams and trucks. Its Common is bordered by ancient elm trees, amid whose boughs white churches lift their spires. There are rows of fine old pillared mansions—which seem to look down scornfully on the occasional dwelling of less stately architecture—quiet side streets, and winding byways.

The town lies in a valley, through which the river takes its course quietly and decorously, as a river should. In spring-time, when it floods the meadows, it stops considerably at the roadsides, making as little trouble as possible for passers-by. Hills surround Bakersville on every side, sheltering it from cold winds in winter, but turning it into an inferno during July and August, so that the place has not been overrun by "summer people." Sometimes an artist braves the heat in order to paint the loveliness of the surrounding country. Occasional boarders come to farms on the hillside outside the town; but as a rule the inhabitants of Bakersville have been born and bred there.

On a May morning, four years after that day when Simeon Bartlett gave his wise definition of the word "freedom," Nicholas Hastings stood in the doorway of the First National Bank of Bakersville, and drew a deep breath, preliminary to going in to the day's work. Spring was in the air and the tree-tops, painting the budding maples red—turning the orchards into bowers of beauty—tugging at Nick's heartstrings with the old, familiar urge.

Even Main Street, the least lovely part of Bakersville, looked alluring. Store doors stood open, welcoming the warm air that was to make short work of the accumulated stuffiness of winter months. At his fruit stand opposite, G. Leveroni was building a mound of oranges and pineapple, their golden beauty seeming a part of the bright sunshine; and at the post office across the way the R.F.D. man was starting out upon his rounds.

"Gosh! I envy him!" said Nick, and did not know that he spoke aloud till someone answered.

"I do myself, Nick. A great day to be out. I've half a mind to desert the ship and take a holiday."

Nick turned with a smile to the bank's president, who had spoken.

"A holiday! I've almost forgotten what the word means. Take one by all means, Mr. Maxwell. I guess we can worry along without you!"

John Maxwell laughed.

"I'd jump at that advice if my car wasn't in the paint shop. As it is—"

He stopped, suddenly aware that Nick's attention had wandered. A blue roadster was standing before the post office, from which stepped a slender woman in a crisp gown that matched the car. There was something lithe and graceful in her figure that caught John Maxwell's eye. Pausing on the top step, she turned, and perceiving Nick, waved a greeting to which he responded with a gay gesture and a quick lighting of his eyes, which, though lost on the lady across the street, was quite visible to the keen gaze of the bank president.

"Your new neighbor?" he queried, as she turned about.

Nick started, as if his thoughts were far away.

"Yes. Nice people—the Hallidays. She's an artist, you know. Her husband writes."

"Any children?"

"No. I believe they have some sort of notion that children would hamper their careers."

John Maxwell snorted with indignation.

"That's all I care to hear about 'em. How's Gay?"

Nick faced his questioner.

"Gay? What made you ask, sir?"

"Thought last time I saw her she looked seedy. Didn't like it, I'm very fond of Gay."

Nick smiled.

"I'm fond of her myself!" Then he said soberly: "The kids both indulged in whooping cough, you know, and Gay lost sleep. She's not been quite right since—tired, I guess. Well" (with a reluctant glance at the town clock), "I suppose I must retire to my cage."

"A cage—for Nick!" murmured John Maxwell as the boy left him. He stood for a moment watching the lady in the blue roadster ride away. He frowned. Then his thoughts flew to Gay, and his face softened. "She's in a cage, too," he thought wisely, "only she doesn't guess it, bless her loyal heart! Well, I trust their new neighbor will keep her hands off Nick—and her eyes, too! She hasn't any babies to lose sleep over. No wonder she looks fresh as a new-blown rose."

Then, as reluctantly as Nick, he, too, entered the portals of the First National Bank. But business was not pressing that morning, and his thoughts wandered. Why, he thought irritably, hadn't the janitor extinguished the furnace fire? The pipes of the radiator were still warm. He arose, opened another window, and in desperation threw wide the door to his private room. At eleven o'clock he decided he couldn't stand it. Passing Nick's cage he said: "I'm taking your advice—till after dinner. Thunder! this place is stifling! Why don't you open something more?"

Nick made a discouraged gesture toward a stenographer.

"She's got a cold. She always has a cold—can't stand a draught, so the rest of us suffer. A draught, on a day like this! If you'll kindly forget to close the door when you go out I'll award you a medal for saving one life at least."

"It would be the first I ever received," laughed John Maxwell as he obeyed.

He stepped outside, drawing in a deep breath of the welcome air. His own home lay to the north, but something drew him in the opposite direction—possibly the sight of a blue roadster turning a corner. He followed it, and came out on the house once occupied by Selina Smith. There he paused, surveying the old-time garden that had been restored. A rickety cow shed had vanished, and in its place stood a trim garage, connected with the house by a pergola, which would soon be a wealth of climbing roses.

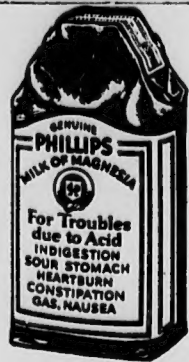

It was a good old house, thought John Maxwell. He was glad the new people hadn't spoiled it with a tower, as the man who bought the Blodgett farm had done. Give it a year or two, and the garden would be a thing of beauty. And it was good to see a coat of new white paint, even though it made Nick's house next door look shabby. Yes, it did look shabby; there was no denying the fact; but painting cost in these days, and the boy's expenses had been heavy the last three years.

"Buy a ticket for your concert? But I don't know you." "Yes, you do, sir. I'm the man who turns your water off when you don't pay the rates."

Idea Proved Effective

Dresden Painter Tried New Way To Collect Money

A new and effective method by which an artist may exert gentle pressure upon an unwilling subject of a portrait has been successfully tried at Dresden. A young, unknown painter, having nearly finished a commissioned likeness of one of Dresden's leading industrialists, was told that the agreed upon sum of $500 would not be paid. The industrialist declared that the portrait bore not the slightest resemblance to him. The artist respectfully asked if he might have this statement in writing, as he had borrowed money on the expectation of being paid and wished to be able to show his creditor why he could not meet his obligation. To this the industrialist agreed.

Shortly thereafter at an exhibition a painting appeared entitled "Portrait of a Well-Known Swindler." Dresden, recognizing the likeness, laughed. The industrialist visited the exhibition, flew into a great rage and demanded the immediate removal of the picture. The artist blandly produced the signed statement asserting that the portrait bore no resemblance whatever to the sitter. The upshot was that the industrialist decided to buy it for $1,000.—New York Times.

Paid Fine In Pennies

Vernon Deery had the court at Phoenixville, Pennsylvania, a bit peeved recently when he attempted to pay a fine of $13 for speeding with 1,300 pennies. When he deposited them before justice of the peace, that gentleman demanded that Deery count them. To make sure the count was correct, the justice counted them himself. The transaction took over an hour.

Little Helps For This Week

"Into Thine hand I commit my spirit."—Psalm xxxi. 5.

Father, Thy hand the wild bird brings With fearless flight, from shore to shore, Safe in that sheltering peace it sings, Howe'er the tempest roar.

So tossed, so frail, so lone am I, Except that hand my guidance be, Hear Thou my fearful, hopeful cry, Dear Lord, lay hold of me.

—Rose Terry Cooke.

Cling fast to the hand that is leading you, though it be in darkness, though it be in deep waters, you know whom you have believed. Yield not for a single moment to misgivings about future storms. FEEL MEAN?

Don't be helpless when you suddenly get a headache. Reach in your pocket for immediate relief. If you haven't any Aspirin with you, get some at the first drugstore you come to. Take a tablet or two and be rid of the pain. Take promptly. Nothing is gained by waiting to see if the pain will leave of its own accord. It may grow worse! Why postpone relief? There are many times when Aspirin tablets will "save the day." They will always ease a throbbing head. Quiet a grumbling tooth. Relieve nagging pains of neuralgia or neuritis. Or check a sudden cold. Even rheumatism has lost its terrors for those who have learned to depend on these tablets.

Gargle with Aspirin tablets at the first suspicion of sore throat, and reduce the infection. Look for Aspirin on the box—and the word Genuine in red. Genuine Aspirin tablets do not depress the heart.

Coming home by way of St. John. Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett is expected there Friday, which will bring him to Ottawa early on Saturday. A great variety of subjects and a lot of people await his home-coming after an absence which began on September 22nd.

A shipment of 128 live cattle from farms in Ontario went forward recently to England, the first in 18 months. It was consigned to buyers in Manchester. The shipment, though comparatively small is regarded by the live stock trade as marking resumption of Canada's export trade in cattle to the British market.

At Knox United Church.

The minister is taking "Fellowship" as his theme for Sunday, December 14th. The matter of men's living together wisely and happily has concerned the thought of some of the shrewdest and some of the keenest minds. Can a world into whose very structure so many lies have been built be a world of fellowship? Are we to treat our friends as if they may sometime become enemies and should we treat our enemies as if they may sometime become our friends? Can truthful men have fellowship with liars? The subject strikes deep into life and concerns every one of us in our daily lives.

On Sunday evening, at Knox Church, there will be given through the kindness of the Victrola people, who are loaning the phonograph, the message of the new Moderator of the General Council, Dr. Edmund Oliver. This special record is supplied by the Toronto office of the United Church in Canada.

All alarmist talk of world over-production of wheat is wholly unwarranted, according to Dr. W. W. Swanson, head of the department of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, interviewed on board the Empress of Australia on his way to the Imperial Economic Conference. He instanced, in support of his view, the fact that in the midst of the campaign to reduce wheat acreage in the United States, a drought had occurred which had reduced the total yield of cereal crops by more than the average wheat crop of the country.
